A college degree is within your reach

Applied Technical Studies for REALTORS®

Offered by the Rhode Island Association of REALTORS® and the New England Institute of Technology
Would you like to further your education using credits you've already earned?

The Rhode Island Association of REALTORS® and the New England Institute of Technology have teamed up to offer a unique opportunity for REALTORS® to earn a college degree.

Credits earned from many of the education courses offered through the Rhode Island Association of REALTORS® (RIAR) are now transferrable to the Associate Degree Program in Applied Technical Studies at the New England Institute of Technology (NEIT). This provides REALTORS® with a unique opportunity to begin a new degree or complete one they’ve already begun. Receive a degree in Applied Technical Studies with a concentration of credits related to business management-technology, information technology, building construction, communications and more. A dedicated New England Tech advisor will help you chart your future.

The Associate Degree in Applied Technical Studies requires 92 credits. For your convenience, classes start four times per year: January, March, July, and October.

RIAR members who are interested in pursuing further education with New England Tech will be assessed on an individual basis. For more details, please call Bob Larrabee at New England Tech at (800)736-7744 X3355.

Explore Your Options and Join us for Tech Nite!

If you’re interested in learning about the opportunities that await you at New England Tech, attend Tech Nite on June 7th. Stop by for a visit anytime from 4-8 p.m. and an NEIT representative will be available to address REALTOR® questions and guide you through the variety of degree options at the college.
